

Intent for our History curriculum

At Bordesley Green Primary, our intent when teaching history is to stimulate the children's curiosity, in order for them to develop their knowledge, skills and understanding. Our teaching and learning reflects the children's cultural heritage in order to help them understand their past, present and future within modern Britain.

Our study of History ignites children's curiosity about the past in Britain and the wider world. Through finding out about how and why the world, our country, culture and local community have developed overtime, children understand how the past influences the present. History in our school enables children to develop a content for their growing sense of identity and framework for their knowledge of significant events and people. What they learn through History can influence their decisions about personal choices, attitudes and values. Engaging activities, trips and visitors give our students an opportunity to understand and question the past.
